All that was possible to do under the circumstances for the patient's relief was done, but owing to his extremely weak state, the efforts of his physicians were unavailing, and at 9:30 he passed away. Mr. Norquay was born in Manitoba in 1841, and since 1870 he has been connected with the government of the province. All the members of the Legislature have been summoned by telegraph, and it is safe to say that the funeral will be the largest ever witnessed in Manitoba. The post mortem examination held, revealed the cause of death to have been a twist in the bowels, in which a number of half-masticated oranges had lodged. ## A TIME ERROR.

The Herald begs leave to call the attention of the "Commercial" and the "Journal of Commerce" to a mistake which has appeared in their columns, in articles published about the 2,000 young cattle, brought by Mr. McGregor, from Ontario for Mr. J. J. Barter of the Quorn Ranch, near Calgary. The The Journal says:—"They will remain on the grazing lands till fall, when they will be again brought east." It is not the intention to ship them east this fall, the time would be too short to make a paying speculation, if the cattle were going back in a few months, making a total distance of about 4,200 miles they would be carried by rail to be paid for. At the time it was announced these cattle would be brought in from the east we explained to our readers the nature of the venture. The cattle are all young a few year olds and a very few three year olds, judging from the appearance of the animals they would average two year of age, however that is not important, they are quite young and have not attained their full growth, and will be kept here till they are at least fairly well matured beef cattle, this will take from 2 to 3 years. It has not been made public what the cost of these cattle is delivered on the ranch, it probably does not exceed $20 per head. The cattle will fatten up at once and grow at the same time, it is reasonable to suppose that with an average Calgary winter $2 per head will cover the entire cost of keeping for one year, including feed to cover losses. It is reasonable also to believe that each animal will add in each year of its stay here, $10 to its market value at Calgary, so that if they are worth $20 now they will be worth $10 more for each year they remain till they are five years old. To many of our eastern friends, it seems to be difficult for them to understand, how cattle are kept here at so little cost. Many of them seem to think still, though so much has been published by our papers, the Govt. and the C.P.R. to the contrary, that when fall comes on that cattle and horses must be housed and fed as in Manitoba and Ontario or Quebec. To all such we would say again, that it is usual for all horses and cattle except fine imported breeding stock and milk cows to get their living on the prairies all winter and they are generally fatter than stabled stock in the east. At the same time no prudent farmer or rancher ever neglects to stack sufficient native hay to carry his stock through a possible storm or a few days' snow on the ground.

LUMBER DUTIES.

Although the lumber and timber duties do not effect us in this district, so directly as they do in some parts of Canada, yet it may become a live question on the Columbia soon, and it is a national question which is just now attracting considerable attention. A report came over the wires to us the other day to the effect that the Ottawa Government had offered to remove all duties on lumber if the United States would do the same. Just as though Sir John (not Sir John Herschel), but Sir John Macdonald had discovered a new saw log planet, just as though that had not always been Sir John's policy. We notice the following on this subject in the "Commercial" of July 1st in reference to the report above mentioned:—

"If this rumor be true, the Dominion Government is entitled to more credit for a desire for freer trade relations with the United States than this journal and a majority of the people of this province were prepared to allow. Of course Sir John is not responsible for what the Commercial may conceive to be the policy of the Ottawa Government. Was it not Sir Alexander T. Galt, as Finance Minister that arranged the reciprocity treaty with the United States, by which free trade in lumber logs and shingles was inaugurated. Did Sir John ever moot such a thing as abrogating that treaty? No. It went on for 11 or 12 years, under it Americans and American capital came into Canada, great mills were built by them, employment was given to the settlers in the new parts of Canada, a market was created for the produce of the backwoods farmer and they were enabled to turn their bush lands into smiling grain farms. Amongst those who invested largely in Canada were A.P.G. Dodge, the Sage, the Beechers and others of New York and a host of Albany and Boston men. But a change came after the close of the civil war in the States. Prices of every staple went up. The nation had a war debt of nearly three thousand millions of dollars. They taxed everything to raise revenue. They and not Sir John's Government gave notice of the abrogation of the free trade treaty in raw products, and it was choked off. They at once put on a heavy import duty on our lumber almost prohibitory, but they allowed saw logs to go in free and then began the spoliation of the pine forests along Lake Erie shore. The Americans came there with ready cash, tempted the farmers to sell their standing pine and it was floated down to Black Rock and Tonawanda and sawn up there, giving employment and all its concomitants to the Americans and leaving the Canadian mill owners in a ruinous condition, their mills being valueless. The pine along Lake Erie and Lake Ontario was the nearest to Albany of any Americans could get. The writer was interested in some mills and also in supplying lumbermen with goods, and the side pinched us. We appealed to Sir John's Government in the interest of the country in general and ourselves in particular, and an order-in-council was passed putting an export duty on logs. This was a year or two after the close of the war and so far as we can remember was the first time an export duty was put on Canadian logs.

The export duty of $1.00 per thousand feet board measure put on logs, as referred to, remained on for some years. But the immediate cause for its adoption, through the pine timber in the district which it was intended to protect being nearly all cut and gone. The duty we believe was taken off by the McKenzie government. The import duty on lumber going into the States was somewhat modified. Paper money regained its face value in the States; so that paying duty on Canadian lumber was not such an awful job as when duty had to be paid in gold, and gold was worth 200 per cent. and under, premium. So the export trade of lumber continued without much interruption for several years; very little going out in the unmanufactured condition, except masts and spars and elm logs for cheese hoops. But after a while another change came over the situation. The great demand for clear lumber, or uppers as they are called, in New York and Boston, together with the fact that through the most wanton waste, Michigan, the great white pine State, was fast becoming denuded of its magnificent pine forests. The work of ruining, which, was hastened by the greed of the lumbermen, who usually only cut the choicest trees and cut only the choicest logs from them, so that they would have as nearly as possible, only clear timber to pay freight on, and for which the highest price would be obtained at Albany. By this process, as soon as the limbs and tops of the cut trees dried up, they formed the best kind of fuel for forest fires, the consequence being in many cases that the whole of the timber after the first cutting, was destroyed. Some of the most terribly destructive forest conflagrations having occurred in Michigan, that are known in the world's history. This being the case, the American lumber manufacturers began again to look with longing eyes to the Canadian pine limits, situated on the Georgian Bay, Lake Huron, and the great rivers tributary to them; in fact any point from which logs could be towed to American mills. These shrewd Yankees began to calculate that they had played havoc with their own forests long enough, and there being no export duty on logs, they attended Mowat's sacrifice sales of Ontario limits, and bought right and left, which of course gave Mowat a little ready cash to feed the army of whiskey suckers by which he is kept in power; but at the same time it meant devastation and utter ruin to the rich heritage of pine, which Mowat had left to replace the per capita surplus he got from the Dominion government, and which he had squandered on an army of political booters.

The few Americans who got fairly to work cutting logs from our forests under the existing state of things in 1885 and 1886, and towing them to their mills on the American side of the line, showed the same reckless disposition that they had done in handling their own limits or worse, contrasting greatly with the conduct of the American gentlemen mentioned in a former part of our article, who had built mills, wharves, tramways and fine residences for themselves, in fact part and parcel of the country. Mr. Dodge becoming naturalized and sitting in the Canadian Parliament for North York. Had they been permitted to go on, the splendid forests of which the "Commercial" speaks as belonging to the Mowat Government, would have disappeared in smoke long before this. Although at this time we had gone out of manufacturing lumber, we thought we understood the danger with which Mr. Mowat's heritage was threatened. We were the first to again take the matter up in the public press. Our first article on the subject was written for and published in the Hamilton Spectator, which number we have before us. We dealt with the question not from any party stand point, but purely from a patriotic stand point.

John John Norquay.

(From Monday's Daily.)

By the death of Mr. Norquay, whose sudden removal in the prime of life, was announced in our telegraphic despatches on Saturday, Manitoba loses her ablest statesman. Born on the Red River 8th May, 1831, he was consequently in his 49th year. A man of great physical power and remarkably healthy. An insurance underwriter would have counted him good for forty years more. The ex-premier has always been a prominent man in his native province, doing a great deal towards bringing order out of chaos and laying broad and deep foundations of responsible government. He first entered the Manitoba Legislature in 1870, became a minister in 1871 and premier in 1873, and in 1885 received what is called the Confederation Medal. In 1885, when Adolphe Caron visited Winnipeg and a banquet was given in his honor. He in the course of a brilliant speech, made most honorable mention of the deceased statesman. In the fifth session of the Manitoba Legislature, Mr. Norquay having made very good terms for his province with the Dominion Government, securing for it a per capita allowance of $5.38, was very strong in the local house. He then introduced his famous railway and land measures. That year, for the first time, the expenditure of the province was kept within the revenue. At the last general election Mr. Norquay's government was defeated at the polls, but he was returned for Kildonan for which constituency he was the sitting member at the time of his death.

A Good Citizen Gone.

It is our sad duty today to record the untimely death of one of Calgary's most respected and enterprising citizens, Mr. Frederick G. Smith, of the banking firm of LeJeune and Smith, passed away at 10:30 o'clock this forenoon at his residence Egan Avenue, Calgary. Mr. Smith was in his 34th year when he died. He was a man full of hope and enterprise. He was born at the town of Port Hope, Province of Ontario, and was a son of the late Judge Smith of Lindsay, in the same province. Mr. Smith was educated at Trinity College, Port Hope. Very early in life he chose banking as a profession and was employed in the Merchants Bank of Canada at different branches of the institution in old Canada for several years. He came out to the New West in 1882, and entered into partnership with Dr. J. D. Lafferty as private bankers in Regina. In 1885 the firm moved to Calgary where they carried on a banking business under the name of Lafferty & Smith till last March, when he dissolved partnership with the Doctor and the firm of LeJeune, Smith & Co. Bankers was formed. Mr. Smith taking this branch of the business. His partner, Mr. LeJeune, remaining at Regina. Being a great favorite, he had worked up a good business and to all appearances had years of prosperity before him. About ten days ago he felt an attack of rheumatism coming on, but felt no apprehensions of danger. He continued to feel it more from day to day and when in the Herald office a week ago today, said he intended to go to the hot springs at Banff, as Mr. Christie had come or was coming to relieve him; but the next day, Friday, he was taken much worse, and the disease soon developed into acute rheumatism of the worst form. Dr. Lafferty called a consultation of physicians, but their united skill was of no avail, and for two days before he breathed his last, he was in a semi-unconscious state. The deceased gentleman leaves a wife and two small children to mourn his early demise. Mrs. Smith is the only daughter of Mr. Charles James, C.E., of Regina, who, with Mrs. James, are expected to arrive in Calgary by tomorrow morning's express train. Notice of the funeral will be found in another column.

The Fate of Mr. Smith.

(From Saturday's Herald.)

The funeral of the much lamented Mr. Fred G. Smith took place as announced from his late residence, Egan Avenue at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The great esteem in which the deceased gentleman was held in town, was demonstrated by the very large number that turned out in the disagreeable weather to pay their last tribute of respect to one who in the midst of health and prosperity had been snatched from their midst ere he had reached the prime of business manhood. Every firm in town whither business or professional were represented in the funeral cortege, there being between forty and fifty carriages. The procession moved from the house to the Cathedral Church of the Redeemer, Calgary, where the beautiful and solemn service for the dead was conducted by the Rector the Rev. A. W. F. Cooper. From the church the funeral proceeded to the Fish Creek burying ground ten miles from Calgary, where the remains of our late townsman and most worthy citizen were committed "Earth to Earth and Ashes to Ashes" to wait till the call of the Archangel trumpet shall bring forth the buried millions of the ages to their reward.

The pall bearers were: W. T. Ramsey, A. D. Braithwaite, J. F. C. Bown, John L. Bowen, T. B. Lafferty and W. J. G. Souchier.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Herald as an exponent of public opinion publishes correspondence from any of its readers so long as it is within the bounds of propriety. The paper does not however, necessarily endorse the opinions expressed by its correspondents. Correspondence to secure insertion must be brief and to the point and written on one side of the paper only.

The Market Building.

DEAR EDITOR,—We have heard a great deal about a market since Calgary has been incorporated. Both of the newspapers have advocated such an institution, and the farmers have been looking forward to something of the kind. No matter how humble so long as it were established, it could be added to and improved from year to year. All that is necessary at first will be a fenced space where teams can be unhitched, if necessary, and left standing while the horses are fed. In addition to this, sheds open on one side so that wagons could be backed under them for protection from rain or snow during inclement weather. This would cost the town but very little and would be a great convenience to the farmers who come to town to sell their produce, and I think that the farmer is entitled to some slight consideration from the townsmen. All the supplies for the farm are purchased in Calgary. I think it rather contracted for any citizen to take personal interests into a council meeting, as councillors are supposed to act on behalf of all classes. It is unfortunate for the working classes when a majority of their legislators happen to be a class who are making profit by selling a certain article or articles, where a public market, no matter how humble, would place these articles in direct contact with the consumer who could buy it for less than them, (the merchants.) As a producer, I will explain this beyond question. A farmer brings in his butter or eggs to the merchant, who may allow him 25 or 30 cents per pound or dozen, he will pay this amount in truck or barter, making in addition to the profit, (if any,) on the butter or eggs, from 30 to 50 per cent. on the goods exchanged by him, in this way he can afford to sell the country produce at the same figures allowed to the farmer; the farmer however would be much better off and have more return for his goods were he to receive but 15 or 20 cents in cash for his goods, as cash in hand will do much more than sugar, tea, or bacon in the matter of buying cattle to place on the farm, and the townspeople would realize the benefit of the difference between the barter and cash sales. Hoping that these few words coming from an actual producer, will have some weight and induce the council to push the matter. I remain,

H. CODRUM.

Calgary, July 8th, 1889.

He Stole a Watch.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

A much named man was put in the Drinkwater Street bunks by the police last night charged with stealing a watch. His list of names and aliases is much too long for our columns. He is the same conglomeration of individuality that stole a buffalo robe from Dr. Lafferty last year and a pair of skates from the Star Rink last winter. When cornered by the Chief of Police he said he would find the missing watch, so the chief went with him to a yard east of Drinkwater street, where the fellow dug the earth out of a newly covered up hole and got the watch. He had been employed lately cutting wood there. The chief thought that although the watch had been recovered, it would be best to have Geo. Murdoch, J. P., apply some of his Legal lore to the case of 11 anti meridian. Since writing the above the man was brought before Geo. Murdoch and sent up for trial at the next court in Calgary.

Cemetery Meeting.

[From Tuesday's Daily.]

The joint cemetery committee of the city churches and city council met yesterday afternoon in the new school house in connection with the Church of the Redeemer at 4 p.m. The chairman Rev. A. W. F. Cooper presided. There were present Rev. J. J. Leach, Ph. B., Rev. J. C. Herdman, Mayor Marsh, Chas. Watson, W. F. Orr and W. H. Cushing. A resolution was passed authorizing the mayor to purchase on behalf of the committee at the auction sale to take place on the 16th inst., the piece of land chosen for a new cemetery, the mayor to use his discretion as to the price he shall pay, and to give a bond to the town that he will within six months hand over the land to the town for cemetery purposes at cost price, with the necessary expense and twelve per cent added. If the town does not take the land within six months for a cemetery, it is to remain at the private disposal of the mayor for his own uses. A resolution was passed appointing Mr. Charles Watson as secretary of the joint committee, in place of Mr. Wm. Ballie, who has left the city. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

The Proposed Cemetery.

[From Tuesday's Daily.]

Some months ago a public meeting was held to discuss the question of the removal of the present cemetery, at which a committee was appointed to confer with the Government as to the possibility of obtaining another site, either by purchasing or by exchanging the old grounds for a more suitable location. Since the holding of that meeting negotiations have been going on with the Department of the Interior to attain the end desired.

The committee after examining all of unoccupied portions available, decided to make application for legal subdivision 13 of sec. 11, township 24, range 1, west of the 5th meridian. After considerable correspondence the Department of the Interior have offered to sell the tract asked for, but to comply with the law it must be put up at auction for public competition, and consequently the said land is now under advertisement for sale. An order-in-council dated March 29th, 1889, provides "that subject to the town of Calgary purchasing the school land above referred to at public auction the corporation of Calgary be permitted to sell the site directly granted to them under the order-in-council of the 23rd of December, 1885, for cemetery purposes, so that they may thereby realize the purchase money of the land which they now desire to acquire as a cemetery." It will be seen that a favorable chance is now offered to acquire satisfactory land for cemetery purposes, and that unless this arrangement is taken advantage of and carried out in the manner prescribed, the question of a cemetery will still remain in the same unsatisfactory condition. It will be readily understood that even no other portion of sec. 11 can now be substituted in lieu of the one originally asked for, as any change of this sort would vitiate concessions now offered by the Government, and the same ground would have to be gone over again between the Department of the Interior and the town, and a total failure even then might ensue. It is not the intention to sell the entire plot of the old cemetery (112 acres), but to retain whatever portion is now occupied with a reasonable acreage added to it so retain in it in a uniform shape.

Signed on behalf of the Cemetery Committee, A. W. F. COOPER, Chairman.

No Place Like Ireland.

"Won't you come in out of the rain?" was the question asked of a lady and a small boy who took shelter in a west end merchant's doorway on Saturday last. The door being opened the lady and her diminutive companion entered.

The speaker was a gentleman well known in Calgary.

"It's a wet day out, the lady replied."

"Yes, but it's for the health of the crops and consequently for the people."

"Yes."

"What Church do you belong to Mrs. what's this your name is?"

My name is Mrs. J——, sir, and I belong to the Catholic Church."

"It's a fine Church they're building."

"Yes, and that's what it is."

"I suppose the people will have to pay for it?"

"Yes, and I think it's a shame too, with all the land they have. They should sell some of it and not let the people pay for it themselves."

"Yes."

The questioner having ascertained by the lady's accent, what part of the world she hailed from, wanted to know if that was the way they did things in Ireland. "Yes, just the same, she said."

The religious point having now been discussed to both parties' satisfaction, the next thing was Albert's products as compared to Ireland's.

"Does the sun shine as hot in Ireland as it does here?"

"Och sure, it's hotter here, you know that yourself."

"Are the potatoes as good?"

"No, they're nowhere with the Irish tayties."

"Is the beef as good?"

"No."

"Is the bacon as good?"

"No."

"Is the flour as good?"

"Well it's very fine flour indeed, but not as good as at home."

"Are the eggs as good?"

"Well, yes, the eggs are the nearest of anything to the old Irish ones."

The questioner here remarked that he had seen one Irishman express just the same opinion in the East in regard to Irish and Canadian products.

The dew which had been falling quite gently, now ceased for a short interval, and the lady and the small boy decided to venture out.

"Good day, Mrs. J——, the tiresome questioner sung out, as the door was being closed."

The lady, taking time by the forelock, did not lose an opportunity of getting even with her inquisitive friend, and peering back through the closing door, remarked:

"I can see the map of Ireland on your face!"

The party referred to, evidently received quite a shock to his nervous system, he being a native of Lincolnshire, England.

The HERALD man, thinking he had heard enough of Ireland and the fine products thereof, suddenly had business elsewhere, leaving the merchant and his clerk not a little surprised at the large amount of valuable information they had accidentally gained.

The Chicken Show.

How dear to my heart is the old speckled rooster Which fond recollections bring back to my view,

With spurs long and pointed and curving, he used to Go crowing around till he made the air blue; And when some strong rooster would come to do battle,

How quick would the old chap get up on his guard,

He'd make the eyeballs of the strange rooster rattle,

And scatter his feathers all over the yard; The old speckled rooster, the mongrel bred rooster,

The fifty-cent rooster that scraped in the yard.

STOCK.

The Importation of American Cattle.

Packers of American cattle, hogs, and their products are making a strong effort to get the United States Government to take up again the subject of introducing them to England, Germany, and France. American home products are now excluded by law from France and Germany, and live cattle are practically excluded from England by quarantine regulations.

The Stallion's Condition.

An English stallioner writes: I have always held that a stallion ought not to be in show condition at the end of the season. It is detrimental to the constitution and procreative power of the stallion to be fed up like a fat tullock in early spring, for it is seldom such an animal gets many foals for the first five or six weeks. Let any breeder put a number of mares daily to such a horse which is daily losing flesh, and an equal number to a stallion which has been worked in the team. The latter will not only leave his mares in foal from the first, but will thrive and improve, and he is in better condition at the end of the season than at the commencement, and the chances are that he will leave 30 per cent more foals, and, given that the animals are equally well bred, the stock of the latter will come with more muscular power and harder constitutions. If this is the case with the earlier date, I hold it to be a suicidal policy to continue the overfeeding during the season for the sake of winning a Prize at the summer shows.

A Mad Dog.

Frank Sheldon while riding his bicycle on Calumet avenue, Chicago, just as the children were coming from school, discovered that his dog had gone mad. He sprang to the ground, seized the snapping, gnashing beast between the shoulders and was on his wheel before the people, watching in terrified helplessness, knew what he was doing. Once on he fairly flew up the avenue, past the children, holding the dog at arm's length, while it howled in agony, making every effort to bite him. He turned from the avenue into Bay Street, hoping to escape the children, but ran into another group of them; Mrs. N. G. Bartlett saw him and comprehended the situation; she opened her door and screamed to Sheldon to bring the dog into her front hall. He did so, still keeping his grip till Mrs. Bartlett brought a cloth saturated with chloroform and held it over the dog's mouth till he died. Such an instance—two such instances—of heroic presence of mind in the face of a fearful danger, are seldom witnessed and deserve lasting memorial.—Chicago Union Signal.

Presentation.
(From Thursday's Daily.)
A few friendly members of the Ride Association waited upon Mr. Neil McCaul at the Royal Hotel last evening, who was about leaving to take up his residence in Victoria, and presented him with the following address, accompanied by a handsome gold watch charm:

To Mr. NEIL McCAUL:
Dear Sir,—While regretting your absence from Calgary and more particularly from the friendly contests that are the purpose of our Association, where your kind and manly conduct made you a favorite, we ask you to accept this slight token of our esteem and of our best wishes for your future prosperity. [Signed.]

ISAAC FREEZE,
JNO. COSTIGAN,
JAMES MORTIMER,
JAMES REILLY.

Mr. McCaul, in a few well chosen words, expressed his hearty thanks for the kind purpose of his fellow members of the Ride Association and would not soon forget Calgary where he had many interests and to which he hoped again to return.

Sacred Heart Convent.

(From Saturday's Daily.)
At 1.30 o'clock on the afternoon of the 28th the distribution of prizes took place at the Sacred Heart Convent, Calgary.
Their Lordships Bishops Grandin and Ferreau presided with several priests. The seats occupied by the parents and friends of the pupils were hardly sufficient for the numerous assembly. As the school room could not afford space enough, the exhibition took place in the church. The walls were hung with blue and white and graceful wreaths of green, which had a charming effect. The entertainment was opened by the execution of "Clayton's Grand March" on two pianos. After this the Lordships and the visitors were agreeably entertained for two hours by the different pieces of vocal and instrumental music, as well as by the recitations in English, French and Latin.

The operetta "Lalla" was ably gone through by the junior pupils; the Misses Sparrow and Rouleau holding the principal parts. It would be useless to discuss the merit of each succeeding item of the programme, but those who were presents had no doubts of the thorough training received by the children who attend the school. Their easy manners were also a subject of admiration to the assembly.

The graver part of the performance was interrupted by two or three comic songs which excited great amusement; especially that entitled "Put it down to me," sung with the utmost self possession and taste by Master R. Miquelon. When the sounds of the last chorus, the Irish melody "When thro' life unblest we rove" had died away, the names of those who had merited prizes were called by Rev.
Eugene Dubuc and the children received their well merited rewards from the hands of the two prelates who were present, to whom it seemed to be and was, we have no doubt, the greatest pleasure of the day.
When all were at length distributed, the children with one voice sang "Quid Retribuiam" and were accompanied on the organ and piano. And now Mgr. Grandin rose to speak. He addressed the children in a few, but well chosen words. "My dear children," he said "you have done well to end this delightful afternoon by the singing of the 'Quid Retribuiam.'"
Yes, "What shall we render to the Lord?"
Many and many a time I have felt inclined to believe that the reports given me of this school were rather exaggerated, but this work has dispelled all my doubts.
The other day when I assisted at your examinations (these took place on the previous Wednesday) I was surprised to see you so far advanced. I had hoped that this would have been the result of at least three or four years labor, yet to be done, so you can imagine my astonishment at the rapid progress the school is making in the hands of those who are in charge of it.
And now I must return them thanks again and again for the good they are doing, and certainly I shall never regret bringing them into my diocese. I again thank both nuns and children in the name of all present for the delightful afternoon we have spent here."

Their Lordships then withdrew and the parents went round to view the drawings,
paintings and needlework of the pupils,
all of which were greatly admired.

Owing to the want of space we are unable to publish a list of prizes until Monday.

A Pimple Kills Him.

Thomas Price, a farm laborer, of Mag-hull, Lancashire, has died from blood poisoning under singular circumstances.
He was spreading a patent manure, and had a pimple on his arm which he rubbed from time to time. A week later his arm began to swell, and he could not work.

Wanted immediately at the Calgary
Seam Laundry, two good ironers, either male or female. Employment will be given by the day or week.

Dundas and Hamilton.
(From Friday's Daily.)
As an evidence of the tremendous development in the solid old county of Wentworth, its city of Hamilton and town of Dundas, we quote from the Dundas True Banner that the Hamilton and Dundas Railway Co., would run forty trains on Dominion day between these two manufacturing centres. Well, it is only a few years since "Nelson," who was known by every one in both towns, did all the passenger business between those two places with a single stage, making two trips a day each way. The Great Western Railway station at Dundas being half way up the mountain and Hamilton out about a mile from the centre of the city. No one thought of going that way. The whole direct distance being only five miles between the market houses of the two burghs. A few daring spirits like B. B. Osler, Q. O., and ex-judge Smart, conceived the idea of building a railway having no connection but the two towns, and it has turned out a great success. About three years ago a lease of the road for ten years was taken by Mr. Weatherstone, a former superintendent on the Great Western Railway, who, though over eighty years of age, attends to the management with the nimbleness of a young man. Of course when Nelson did the business with one stage, Hamilton and Dundas did not enjoy the advantages of the "National Policy."

A Great New Church.

(From Friday's Daily.)
There may be some of our readers belonging to the Methodist denomination who are not aware of the great strides that have been made by that body of Christians in Montreal. In 1802 the first Methodist preacher held forth in the little walled town of Montreal. Not long after, in 1807, a neat little stone church was erected on little St Joseph Street, south of where the great French Cathedral now stands, in this little building the Methodist preachers held their meetings, (the building is now a reading room.) In 1819 it was felt that a new church was needed, a meeting was held to consider the matter and the sum of $88 was subscribed towards a new church, (just think, eighty eight dollars!)
However the matter was not dropped, and in 1821 a new church was built on Great St. James Street, (where the Medical Hall stood the last time we were in Montreal.) The building cost $24,000 and had no equal amongst the Protestant churches of Montreal, except Christ's Church Cathedral on Notre Dame Street. This church was used for about twenty-five years. (We heard the good Robert Lusher preach in it in 1839.) In 1844 the congregation had so increased that a larger church was needed and the work of erecting a church equal to the requirements of the day was entered upon. The foundation stone of the new church was laid by the Hon.
Senator Ferrier. This new church cost a little over double what the former one did, $56,000. The first sermon was preached in it on Sunday morning, June 27th, 1845, by the peerless Matthew Kitchie, D. D., of Halifax. The then Governor General of Canada, Lord Metcalfe, attended the morning service in state, and occupied the pew set apart for the pastor and his family on the front row of seats to the left hand of the pulpit. For forty-four years the Great St. James Street Church was the meeting place of all union Protestant assemblages, it having the greatest seating capacity of any Protestant church in the city. The last sermon was preached in this church on Sunday evening, June 4th 1888, by the Rev. John Potts, D. D., of Toronto. The corner stone of the new Methodist Cathedral on St. Catharine Street, as some have styled it, was laid by the late Hon. James Ferrier, on the 11th of June, 1887, with the same wall-he used in laying the former corner stone in 1844. A full description of the new church is beyond the limits of our small paper; but standing out as one of the foremost buildings of America, its size and seating capacity may be mentioned.
The main building is 253 feet long, (the French Cathedral is 299 feet long,) transepts 106 feet wide, main tower 200 feet high, second tower 140 feet, height of main building 92 feet. It has comfortable seating accommodation for 2,700 people, and the lecture room seats 1000 more.
It is lighted with 211 electric lights.
The cost of the building is a half a million dollars, which is nearly all paid up.
It was dedicated to the worship of Almighty God on the 16th of June, 1889.

A Prosperous Sheep Company.

Montana has declared a dividend of 29 per cent, for last year's business. They say next year they expect to increase it.
Not a bad showing for a so called hazardous industry.

The rain has come at last and still time to prevent any serious shortage crops unless it is the hay which will not nearly so long as if more rain had fallen two or three weeks ago. For the last days farmers have been wearing eluded viages on account of the dryness of the ground. Nearly every day there were strong indications of rain and of a few drops fell. But all at once the sky would clear up and if there was least wind the dust would begin to Yesterday about four o'clock the became overcast and the rumbling distant thunder were heard in the west then came the almost sure producer
